DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

The Democratic party of the United States, in national convention assembled, declares its develon to the essential principles of the Democratic faith which brings us together in party communion. Under them, local self-government and national unity and prosperity were alike established. They underlaid our independence, the structure of our free republic and every Democratic extension from Louisiana to California and Texas to Oregon, which preserved faithfully in all the states the tie between taxation and representation. They yet inspire the masses of our people, guarding jealously their rights and liberties and cherishing their fraternity, peace and orderly development. They remind us of our duties and responsibilities as citizens and impress upon us, particularly at this time, the necessity of reform.

The application of these fundamental principles to the living issues of the day is the first step toward the assured peace, safety and progress of our nation. Freedom of the press, of conscience and of speech, equality before the law of all citizens; the right of trial by lury; freedom of the person defended by the writ of habeas corpus; liberty of personal contract untrammeled by sumptuary laws; the supremacy of the sivil over military authority; a well disciplined midital; the separation of church and state; economy in expenditures; low taxes, that labor may be lightly burdened; the prompt and sacred fluidliment of publics—these are doctrines which Democracy has established as proverbs of the nation, and they should be constantly enforced.

We favor the enactment and administration of laws giving labor and capital impartially their just rights. Capital and labor ought not to be enemies. Each is accessary to the other. Each has its rights, but the rights of labor are certainly no less "vested," no less "sacred" and on less "inalienable" than the rights of capital.

Constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, acquire and enjoy property, or reside where interest or in people. This menetreus perversion of these equal opportunities which our political institutions were established to secure, has caused what may once have been infant industries to become the greatest combinations of capital that the world has ever known. These especial favorites of the government, have, through trust methods, been converted into monopolies, thus bringing to an end domestic competition, which was the only check upon the extravagant profits made possible by the protective system. These industrial combinations, by the financial assistance they can give, now control the policy of the Republican party.

We denounce protection as a robbery of the many to enrich the few and we favor a tariff limited to the necessities of the government economically administered, and so levied as not to discriminate against any industry, class or section, to the end that the burdens of taxation shall be distributed as equally as possible.

We favor a revision and a gradual reduction of the tends of the we deny the right of any executive to disregard or suspend any constitutional privilege or limitation. Obedience to the laws and respect for their requirements are alike the supreme duty of the citien and the official.

The military should be used only to support and maintain the law. We unjustifiedly condemn its employment for the summary banishment of citizens without trial, or for the control of elections. without trial, or the measure which passed the United States senate in 1895, but which a Republican congress has ever since refused to enact, relating to contempts in federal courts and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

included and permanent commercial prosperity; and any trust, combination or menopoly tending to destroy these by controlling production, restricting competition or fixing prices, should be pronibited and punished by law. We especially denounce rebates and discrimination by the transportation companies as the most potent agency in promoting and strengthening these unlawful conspiracies against trade.

We demand an enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission to the end that the traveling public and shippers of this country may have prompt and adequate relief for the abuses to which they are subjected to in the matter of transportations.

We demand a strict enforcement of existing civil and criminal statutes against all such trusts, combinations and monopolies, and we demand the enactment of such further legislation as may be necessary to effectually suppress them.

Any trust or unlawful combination engaged in interstate commerce which is monopolising any branch of business or production should not be permitted to transact business outside of the state of its origin. Whenever it shall be established in any court of competent jurisdiction that such monopolization exists such prohibition should be enforced through comprehensive laws to be enacted on the subject.

We congratulate our western citizens upon the passage of the measure known as the Newlands Irrigation act for the frigation and reclamation of arid lands of the west—a measure framed by a Democrat, passed in the senate by a non-partisan vote and passed in the house against the opposition of almost all the Republican leaders by a vote, the mijority of which was Democratic measure, broad and comprehensive as it is, working automatically throughout all time without further action of almost all the Republican leaders by a vote, the mijority of which was Democratic measure, broad and comprehensive as it is, working automatically throughout all time without further action for congress, until the reclamation of all republicant has a proposition him as such.

We favor the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people. We favor the admission of the territories of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. We also favor the immediate admission of Arizona and New Mexico as separate states, and a territorial government for Alaska and Porto Rico.

We hold that the officials appointed to administer the government of any territory, as well as with the District of Alaska, should be bona fide residents of the territory or the district in which the duties are to be performed at the time of their appointment.

We demand the extermination of polygamy within the jurisdiction of the United States and the complete separation of church and state in political affairs.

We denounce the ship subsidy bill recently passed by the United States senate as an infquitous appropriation of public funds for private purposes and a wasteful, illogical and useless attempt to overcome by subsidy obstructions raised by Republican legislation to the growth and development of American commerce on the sea. We favor the upbuilding of a merchant marine without new or additional burdens upon the people and without bounties from the public treasury.

We favor liberal trade arrangements with Canada and with the peoples of other countries where they can be entered into with benefit to American agriculture, manufactures, mining or commerce.

We favor the maintenace of the Monmerce.

We favor the maintenace of the Mon-me doctrine in its full entirety. We favor the reduction of the army and f army expenditure to the point histori-ally demonstrated to be safe and sufcally demonstrated to be safe and sufficient.

The Democracy would secure to the surviving soldiers and sallors and their dependents generous pensions, not by as arbitrary executive order, but by legislation which a grateful people stand roady to enact. Our soldiers and sallors who defend with their lives the constitution and the laws, have a sacred interest in their just administration. They must, therefore, share with us the humiliation with which we have witnessed the exaltation of court favorites, without distinguished service, over the scarred heroes of many battles: or aggrandized by executive appropriations out of the treasures of a prosperous people, in violation their own destiny.

The endeavor of the scoretary of war, by pledging the government's indorsement for "promoters" in the Philippine Islands, to make the United States a partner in speculative legislation of the archipelago, which was only temporarily hold by the opposition of Democratic sensitors in the last session, will if successful, lead to entanglements from which it will be difficult to escape.

The Democratic party has been and will continue to be the consistent opponent of that class of tariff legislation by which certain interests have been permitted through congressional favor to by which certain interests have been permitted through congressional favor to draw a heavy tribute from the American

Traits of Indian Children.

A teacher, in an Indian school writes: "A little girl got her finger mashed off recently in the cogs of the mangle of our laundry. She never utters a sound or complaint about the pain. An Indian doesn't appreciate a favor. If you give him bread to-day, to-morrow he will ask for two pieces, and the next day will want coffee thrown in, and if you refuse will be greatly offended. One of the hardest things we have to do is to teach the little Indians to say 'Thank you.' "-Kansas City Journal.

We demonce grotection as a cobbery we favor a tariff limited to the necessities of the government conomically administered, and so levied as not to discriminate against any industry, class or section, to the end that the burdens of taxing by the friends of its abuses, its extertions and its discriminations, keeping in view the ultimate end of "equality of burdens and equality of opportunities," and the secure more than its just share of the joint products of capital indication, and which have been fostered and promoted under Republican role, are a mention of the rounder than its just share of the joint products of capital indication. Conducting the campaign upon this declaration of our principles and purposes, we invoke for our candidate the support, not only of our great and time-honored organization, but also the active assistance of all our fellow-citizens, who, disregarding past differences upon questions no longer in issue, desire the perpetuation of our constitutional government as framed and established by the fathers of the republic.

Birth of a Daybreak Pink. Beneath a hedge-row, dense and green, A modest flower reared its head, With petals white of slivery sheen— No other blossom in the bed.

As on the slender stem it swayed
A dainty odor filled the air,
And yet the flower was not content,
E'en though so fragrant, sweet fair.

For just across the garden path Were blooms of every shade and hue; None brighter, gayer could be found E'er wet by morn or evening dew.

The rare pale flower sadly sighed, "Only to have one little glow Like all the lovely flowers I see, Would make me happier, I know."

A saucy sunbeam heard the sigh, And gayly darting through the green, With fiery giance and heated breath Kissed the pale flower of silver sheen

The sudden warmth of the caress Gave to the flower of a rosy flush; Transformed, its petals ever bore In bud or bloom a dainty blush. Content the flower in beauty throve— No sweeter can be found, I think; We bless the morning sunbeam's kise That gave to us the daybreak pink. —Washington Post.

A Day Dream.

Over yonder near the shore-line there's a sea-gull slowly flying.
Drifting gently on the bosom of the land breeze from the bills.
And he steeps within its fragrance all his senses-none denying.
Till his brain is strangely heary, and his bosom sweetly thrills.

Over yonder near the shore-line & in fancy, see the luster
Of the ardent sunshine streaming est the hills serene and brown,
Ard my vagrant heart is resting where the redwoods thickly cluster,
While my body lingers, helpless, in the smoke-encircled town.

've a fervid, wanton longing for a spot I know out yonder.

I know out yonder.

Tis a little sun-kiesed picture that 1 paint when world-oppressed.

And I dream that I through fragrance of a phantom garden wander

Where, in fancy, Eve a cabin and, in fancy, am at rest.

Woman's Long Sleep.

A Bremen woman, now forty-four years of age, went to sleep in 1886 and has just awakened. During the whole course of her long sleep she never once opened her eyes. When she required food the sleeper would groan, and on food being given to her swallowed it in a natural way. Most of her teeth fell out in the course of her sleep; some she swallowed, others were found on the pillow. She awoke auddenly while the are-alarm belle were being rung

TRAGEDY OF THE KLONDIKE.

Terrible Cold Found Easy Victim In Careless Traveler.

Klondike river is fed by numerous soda springs and even the winter's cold fails to close them entirely. Walking on the edge of the ice near the shore, a miner one day slipped into six inches of water. In a moment he was out and hastening to the brush hard by to light a fire before his feet froze. Rapidly he cut a few fragments of wood with his heavy pocket knife. But the unlighted match dropped from his already chilled finflers, for he had rashly removed his mittens in order to use the knife with more freedom. Then he lighted a second and a third and finally several at one time, but either his haste or perhaps a sigh of the air caused them to fall in the snow. All this time the frost was selzing his limbs, his body, his heart, his mind. He turned to the fatal mittens, which he never should have taken off, but his already frozen fingers could only lift them from the ice where they had fallen, and after a vain attempt he hurled them from him and strove once again to light a last match. But it was too late.

SAVED CHILD'S LIFE.

Remarkable Cure of Dropsy by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sedgwick, Ark., July 11 .- The case of W. S. Taylor's little son is looked upon by those interested in medical matters as one of the most wonderful on record. In this connection his father makes the following statement:

"Last September, my little boy had Dropsy; his feet and limbs were swollen to such an extent that he could not walk nor put his shoes on. The treatment that the doctors were giving him seemed to do him no good and two or three people said his days were short, even the doctors, two of the best in the country told me he would not get better. I stopped their medicine and at once sent for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I gave him three Pills a day, one morning, noon and night for eight days; at the end of the eighth day the swelling was all gone, but to give the medicine justice, I gave him eleven more Pills. I used thirty-five Pills in all and he was entirely cured. I consider your medicine saved my child's life. When the thirty-five Pills were given him, he could run, dance and sing, whereas before he was an invalid in his mother's arms from morning until night."

Bavarians Are Progressive.

The Bavarian Trade Museum has adopted a novel idea to interest as well as to instruct the public and purchasers of toys by sending out traveling lecturers, who show the practical workings of the toys by means of models in actual operation. Some of the more interesting toys thus demonstrated include: A complete railroad train, which can be run backward and ford, slow or fast, and stopped at will.

"Dead" Romeo Protested.

One Alexander, manager of a Glasgow theater, who was also a very bad actor, when he had become an old man was playing the part of Romeo one night, the Juliet being a young girl. After swallowing the poison, he was lying dead, when the grotesque ness of the situation evoked applause from the gallery. Alick (the name by which he was universally known) felt this was meant for mockery. Rising to his feet, he came to the front of the stage and said: "You think I can't play Romeo, but I can play Romeo, I have played it before" (naming some people of distinction) "and I shall play it again." He then lay down and died a second time.

Women as Jewelers.

It is remarkable that more women do not take up the jewelry business when searching for a trade, says an exchange. A woman can cater to women's tastes, and with an apprenticeship under a good firm should be capable of starting in for herself. An Englishwoman has taken up the work and is successful in resetting stones and also has acquired the unusual art of painting precious stones. This is delightful work for a woman, though rather trying to the eyes.

Owed Promotion to Pun.

Canon Melville, who died in England recently, in his 92d year, owed his earliest promotion to a pun. When the late earl of Dudley, who knew Mr. Melville sufficiently to remember that his Christian name was "David," had a living at his disposal, he received a letter containing only the words, "Lord, remember David." The earl's reply was no less terse and scriptural: "Thou art the man!"

Chinese Burial Customs.

When a rich and important China man dies, his funeral is conducted with much pomp and splendor. His friends and relations, instead of sending wreaths, send innumerable banners. These are made of white silk, with inscriptions beautifully worked in black velvet, and express the senders' good wishes to the deceased himself or to the members of his family for many generations. On the day of the funeral these banners are carried by hired men, who are all cressed alike for the occasion. After the funeral, which lasts several hours at the cemetery, is over, the banners are all brought back, and eventually grace the rooms of the late Chinaman's house.

CLAIM SATAN AS HELPER

Stage Magicians of To-day Differ from Ancient Brethren.

When in the thirteenth century, at the University of Paris, Roger Bacon, by means of a prism, threw a rainbow of colors upon a screen, his audience ran away, and he was actually in danger of execution for witchcraft. How wonderfully different is the spirit of the present age, when stage magicians actually advertise their per-formances by flaring posters repre-senting themselves in confabulation with the devil and assisted by his imps. They do this not only without fear of punishment by fire and torture (such as would have been their portion only a couple of centuries ago), but in the knowledge that even a partial belief by the people in their claims to influence in diabolical quarters will bring money to the box of fice, and that a reputed connection with Satan, for business purposes, is for them the best possible advertise ment.

When Success Is Easy.

The principles that win success are very simple and few in number. They are easily remembered. Here they are: First, industry, but not over work; second, willingness to profit by the experience of others; third, abil ity coupled with modesty; fourth, simple and correct habits; fifth, honesty, politeness and fairness. Any one of ordinary ability who practices these rules cannot avoid success. Success is easier than failure.-London Bits.

"From a child I was never strong and had a capricious appetite and was allowed to eat whatever I fancied -rich cake, highly seasoned food, hos biscuit, etc.-so it was not surprising that my digestion was soon out of order and at the age of twenty-three was on the verge of nervous prostration. I had no appetite and as I had been losing strength (because I didn't get nourishment in my daily food to repair the wear and tear on body and brain) I had no reserve force to fall back on, lost flesh rapidly and no medteine helped me.
